This Nebbiolo d'Alba is sourced from one of Euegnio's "monopole" vineyards, La Perucca, which overlooks the city of Alba. While sometimes Nebbiolo d'Albas can seem like a mere footnote to their much bigger brother, the Barolo, Eugenio's Nebbiolo d'Alba is one far from the rest. This wine is treated no differently from a Barolo with almost identical ageing and vinification, and it shows. This Nebbiolo is powerfully structured and well balanced with herbaceous and tea notes overpowering fruity tertiary flavors. Supple tannins and present acidity round out this powerful wine that is a perfect fit with savory soups, stews and poultry dishes.
